John David Williams is a multi-instrument independent recording artist entrenched in the Florida music scene. His versatility and ability to genre hop has made him a go-to artist for a variety of music festivals, events, and other performances.

JOHN DAVID WILLIAMS

Eclectic. Soulful. Versatile.

Meet, JDW.

A native Floridian, John David Williams grew up in a diverse community which shapes his unique style of music. Taking bits from his favorite bands (The Beach Boys, The Byrds, The Beatles, Creedence Clearwater Revival, and 1980's alternative bands R.E.M. and XTC) he has created his own lane as a soulful, thought provoking and energetic artist.

A multi-instrument singer and songwriter, JDW first appeared on the music scene in 2009 as a drummer for the Evan Taylor Jones Band. Finding inspiration in an array of genres ranging from folk-rock all the way to soul sounds of MoTown, his music provides a broad, yet familiar appeal any listener can enjoy.

JDW launched his solo endeavor with his ten song album debut No Need to Hurry. He showcased his musical chops where he played every instrument and sang lead vocals. He followed up his debut album with a six song EP in 2016 entitled Beautiful Distraction, which was heavily influenced by his folk rock background. His ability to hop from genre to genre has given him the opportunity to play alongside a variety of incredible musicians like Steve Garron and Joe Panton of Precious and Cat Ridgeway and The Tourists; where he toured as a bassist and back up vocalist. JDW continues to release music, in 2021 he released his remake of his song "Under The Lights" and his latest release "Go Until The Morning" which is now available on all major streaming platforms.
